An intermission was called during the evening when an excellent supper was served, Mrs. Burnham having charge.

Rev. Mr. Wolcott's Address on the Andover Seminary.

Following is the address in full delivered at the Andover conference by Rev. William E. Wolcott in regard to the future of the Andover Theological Seminary:

"The writer is one of a committee of the alumni of Andover Seminary to confer with the trustees concerning the prospects of the institution. It is proper therefore that I should begin by saying that in what follows I speak for no one but myself.

A period of storm and stress for Andover Seminary began with the withdrawal of Prof. Park from the Seminary in 1881. The Board of Visitors refused to confirm the election of the person whom the trustees chose as his successor. The American Board refused to commission certain graduates because of their doctrinal beliefs. The faculty set forth their views in a series of articles in the Andover Review which were afterwards published under the title of "Progressive Orthodoxy." Several of the professors were thereupon accused of heresy and a public trial combined with what had gone before to awaken a widespread extreme and unwelcome feeling toward the Seminary, which has not yet died out. Various changes in the faculty helped to create the feeling that the glory had departed. "The Old Guard," among the graduates could not believe that anybody could fill the places of Prof. Park and Prof. Phelps, and the Seminary suffered further by the resignations of Prof. Thayer, Prof. Mead, Prof. Taylor, Prof. Tucker, Prof. Harris and Prof. Moore, and by the deaths of Prof. Pease, Prof. Churchill and Prof. Smyth.

There has also been a falling off in the number of students in the country at large and Andover, with its accumulated misfortunes, has suffered disproportionately from this cause. This diminution in the number of students seems to be due to the commercial prosperity which began with the Spanish war.

During the last nine years there has been an increase of eight per cent in the number of Congregational churches in the country, but the average number of undergraduate students in all our Congregational seminaries is thirty per cent less than during the preceding nine years. Figures being 357 and 514. To put the facts in a different way, we have now 499 more churches to provide for and 157 less men preparing for the work.

Under these circumstances the attendance at Andover has come near to the vanishing point, and it is now proposed to attempt to put new life into the institution by removing it to Cambridge and affiliating it with the Harvard Divinity school. The plan proposed is an experiment and the outcome uncertain, and whatever compensations might afterward arise there would be a great immediate loss in taking the Seminary away from the attractions and traditions of its present location. Before weighing the arguments for and against the scheme, it would be well to ask whether there is anything else in the organization of the Seminary which operates against its success. If there is any other serious obstacle the effect should be tried of removing that obstacle before such precious interests are committed to the doubtful sea of experiment.

In opening the catalogue of the Seminary, we come first upon the list of trustees. These are also the trustees of Phillips Academy which is the older institution. The founders of the Seminary thought that one board of trustees would do for both schools. The board is not a large one, consisting of thirteen members. Those who are in a position to know testify that the deliberations of the board give no evidence of a divided interest, that all the members are heartily anxious for the success of the Seminary, and they give freely of their time and thought to meet the requirements of the trust.

But, however cordially we recognize the business ability and large intelligence of the members of the present board, and however fully we give them credit for self-sacrificing devotion to the institution now under discussion, there is yet room for question whether the existing arrangement is wise. The trustees of Andover Seminary ought to be representative of the churches for whom ministers are to be trained. They should include all movements of life and thought in those churches, the varieties of work that are being undertaken, the methods and organizations that are being used.

There should be pastors on the board who meet frequently and on terms of equality with their brother pastors and who know what is said in ecclesiastical gatherings. Laymen should have place on it who are conspicuous Christian workers, and who have an intense interest in providing the sort of pastors and preachers that the congregations need. Men should be on that board who are in the council of our missionary societies and who are in touch with all healthful movements for reform, who could see to it that the Seminary sent out men fitted to become moral leaders of the community at large.

The board as a whole should be animated by an evangelistic and missionary spirit. It should represent an aggressive Christianity. Its members should have experience on the firing line that they may know what training and equipment are needed there. Connection with an educational institution need not be an absolute disqualification for service on the board, but the exclusive and idealism of academic life so unfit men for grasping the needs of the church militant that this element should not predominate. Yet at least five of the present board are engaged in the work of education. One is a college president, one the principal of an academy, two are professors in theological seminaries and one in a university. When it is added that one other trustee is a retired clergyman living on the edge of a university campus, and that until recently yet another was a retired pastor suffering from the infirmities of age, it will be seen that the task of keeping the Seminary in harmony with the churches has devolved upon a small number of men.

The present arrangement not only fails to place upon the board of trustees the men peculiarly fitted to serve the Seminary, but it lays upon the board two sets of duties which are very different and which may become antagonistic. If both schools were prosperous and they were dealing merely with the ordinary details of administration, the trustees might readily turn from the problems of one institution to those of the other without prejudice toward either. The case is different however, when for a quarter of a century one of the schools has been gradually dwindling under constant and varied attacks and the other has enjoyed an advancing prosperity. It must be admitted that the trustees have shown good heart throughout a long series of discouragements. Yet it would be only in accord with the ordinary workings of human nature if the brightening prospects of one institution had not prepared them to give a slightly more prompt acquiescence to the other without prejudice toward either. The Seminary cannot possibly thrive in its present surroundings.

As soon as that question is raised, a very delicate situation is created. It is an established principle of business and of law that a party should not stand a both ends of a bargain. If the guardian of an estate wishes to purchase something from it, the probate court will appoint a guardian ad litem to see that the interests of the estate are protected in the transaction. Directors of corporations sometimes ask to be excused from acting in negotiations between the corporation and concerns in which the directors are interested. There should have been much less material for the muck rake if more directors had shown such delicacy. No one suspects that there has been anything else than conscientious and strenuous endeavor in the part of the trustees to serve both institutions with scrupulous fidelity. And yet, when the removal of the Seminary was proposed, was it possible that they should not be somewhat influenced by the fact that this would make it possible for the academy to secure a superb plant for educational purposes?

As to the presence of educators on the board of trustees, there is manifest advantage in having the affairs of an academy directed by those connected with the colleges or universities for which students are being fitted. It has been unfortunate, however, that the existing arrangement has allowed the spirit and methods of Harvard Divinity school to prevail to such an extent in Andover Seminary. That Seminary represents a denomination which has just raised a million dollars for foreign missions and which spends a million dollars a year in missionary work at home. That Seminary is rich in traditions of the men of the Haystack and the Iowa band and other noble souls who have gone forth to labor among the needy of the earth. The Harvard Divinity school calls itself an undenominational school.

Some of its courses are taken by men still in the academic department, and it has a number of special students. It has not for a score of years graduated any class of more than seven students, and few receive its diploma who are not fitting themselves for the pulpit. Its standard of scholarship is high but the institution is not noted for its spiritual warmth in its evangelistic zeal. The Andover board of trustees includes at present a Cambridge pastor who is one of the board of overseers of the University, a professor in the Academic department and a professor in the Divinity school.

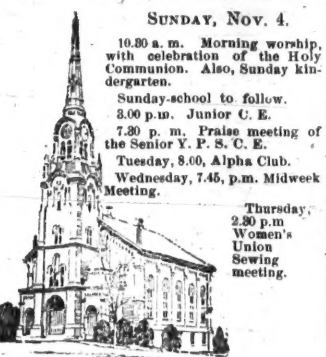

It is understood that the last named has been the most influential member of the board in directing the affairs of the Seminary. Our National Council has expressed itself from time to time in favor of raising the intellectual and educational standard of the ministry. The traditions of Andover tend in the same direction, and under these combined influences the Seminary has striven to give its students a scholarly taste and finish and familiarity with the latest researches and theories.

It would be ungracious to say that too much emphasis has been laid on this side of the work, but it seems to many that preachers and leaders have not been developed. Scholarly equipment has overshadowed the pastoral qualifications. The Harvard standard of the ministry has already prevailed too much here and elsewhere, and our churches are turning to other denominations for their pastors. It may be that Andover fails to enjoy the esteem and co-operation of the churches by reason of the fact that it has given more attention to the critical than to the inspirational, and has failed to appreciate the type of man that the times call for.

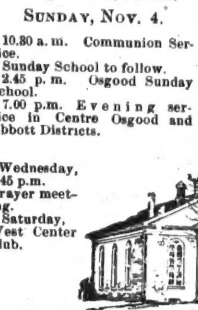

The lack of vital contact with our churches is especially shown in the neglect of the Seminary to undertake any

Consumption

There is no specific for consumption. Fresh air, exercise, nourishing food and Scott's Emulsion will come pretty near curing it, if there is anything to build on. Millions of people throughout the world are living and in good health on one lung.

From time immemorial the doctors prescribed cod liver oil for consumption. Of course the patient could not take it in its old form, hence it did very little good. They can take and tolerate it for a long time. There is no oil, not excepting butter, so easily digested and absorbed by the system as cod liver oil in the form of Scott's Emulsion, and that is the reason it is so helpful in consumption where its use must be continuous.

We will send you a sample free.

Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

AMMON P. RICHARDSON,
PARK STREET

DIDN'T STOP TO FIGURE.

A curious bet that partakes of the nature of a practical joke went to the town of Dole, France, in 1840. A citizen of the district offered to pay one of his countrymen four francs in advance if he would agree to furnish him with a number of grains of millet in proportion to the number of children born in the town within a year. One grain of millet was to be given for the first, two for the second, four for the third, six for the fourth and so on, doubling the number for each child. Accepting the apparently generous offer, the unlucky Frenchman attempted to carry out the provisions; but sixty-six children were born within the specified time. He was assailed at the enormous quantities of millet required to fulfill the contract, and appealed to the courts for annulment of the wager, on the ground that it was founded on an impossible condition. The judges granted his appeal; but he was left to return the twenty-four francs he had received and to pay forty-four in addition.

Deeuss—Your daughter who left the room scarcely replied to my address her. Is she reserved?

Fondman—I think not, but I am sure that she is retiring.

American People Centered on Local and Congressional Campaigns as Election Day Nears—Straus and Meyer in Roosevelt Cabinet Shakeup Which Will Send Moody to Supreme Bench—Picquart in New Clemenceau Ministry. Japan Protests California School Discrimination.

POLITICAL

Changes in the Cabinet.
A formal statement of the changes to be made in the president's cabinet following the retirement of Secretary Shaw and Attorney General Moody was issued at the White House. Postmaster General Cortelyou will become secretary of the treasury, and Secretary of the Navy Bonaparte will become attorney general. George von L. Meyer, present ambassador to Russia, will be appointed postmaster general, and Oscar S. Straus, the New York merchant and philanthropist, will be made secretary of commerce and labor, while Secretary Metcalf will take the navy portfolio. Attorney General Moody is to retire Jan. 1 and Secretary Shaw on March 4. One feature of the change which attracts much attention is the fact that three prominent men of the cabinet—Root, Cortelyou and Straus—will be from the same state—namely, New York. Another fact calling for comment is that Straus has been most of his life a Democrat. In 1896 he voted for Palmer and Buckner, but since that time he has voted the Republican ticket. Mr. Straus served as minister to Turkey under Cleveland and McKinley, and President Roosevelt appointed him to membership in the permanent board of arbitration at The Hague. Cortelyou will be the youngest man in the cabinet, being forty-four years old, the president himself second to the youngest at forty-eight. Straus is a graduate of Columbia college and law school and practiced law for ten years in New York before entering the firm of B. Straus & Sons.

Oscar S. Straus.

Bryan Assails Rockefeller.
During his speechmaking tour in Indiana William J. Bryan urged that all churches and charitable societies should refuse contributions from John D. Rockefeller, saying that thus they would make him "feel how lonesome a man can be in this world who has nothing but money and no conscience back of it."

Murphy Stands by Hearst.
Charles F. Murphy as leader of Tammany Hall notified the district leaders that all must do their utmost to elect Hearst and the entire Democratic ticket. Referring to the personal differences and animosities between himself and Hearst, Murphy said that the present movement was much greater than any personal matters of that sort—namely, the revolt against the domination of government by trust monopoly. The curious thing about this announcement was that on the preceding night at the largest Hearst meeting of the campaign the editor-candidate told the cheering throng that Murphy was not his friend and that he had made no deal with him.

Candidate Emery Gives Bail.
When the Pennsylvania fusion candidate for governor, Emery, reached Philadelphia he was arrested on the charge of libel preferred by James P. McNichol, on account of the campaign speech which described McNichol as a briber. McNichol claimed $250,000 in a civil suit. Emery gave bail for his appearance not more than ten days after election.

Thanksgiving Proclamation.
In his annual Thanksgiving day proclamation President Roosevelt says, "Never before in our history or in the history of any other nation has a people enjoyed more abounding material prosperity than is ours."

Quaker City Regulars Defiant.
The old Republican organization ring, which went down to defeat last year before the phalanx of reform and good government, appears to have re-entered the political lists since the recent surrender of Mayor Weaver to organizational influences. The character of the fight thus begun was indicated by the remarkable speech of David H. Lane, the veteran lobbyist and gang adviser, at a public dinner last week. The culminating sentence was, "Let us end this talk of civic righteousness," thus disclosing the purpose of the organization leaders, who applauded his remark.

Moody For Supreme Court.
It was announced semi-officially that the president had decided on the appointment of Attorney General Moody to the place on the supreme bench left vacant by Associate Justice Brown.

Chicago Socialist Daily.
The first number of the Chicago Daily Socialist, edited by Joseph Medill Patterson, the wealthy young newspaper man who resigned his connection with Mayor Dunne's cabinet to enter the Socialist party, has appeared. It contains the prediction of a financial panic in the near future.

Japan's Protest Entered.
The administration received official notice of Japan's displeasure over the school exclusion system in California when the Japanese ambassador, Aoki, called on Secretary Root and told him that the Japanese government desired that the treaty rights of its citizens be not infringed in the United States. The treaty requires that Japanese subjects shall have all the rights and privileges enjoyed by our own citizens.

EXECUTIVE

More Bank Note Circulation.
Secretary of the Treasury Shaw, after conferring with several bankers in New York, announced that from and after Tuesday, Oct. 23, deposits to facilitate gold importation would be discontinued. These importations had exceeded his expectations, and he thought for the present we had got our share and had no disposition to disturb conditions in Europe. At the same time the secretary said that he would stimulate national bank circulation by accepting securities other than government bonds for the deposits already made to the extent of $18,000,000, the bonds released to be used immediately as the basis of circulation without withdrawal from the treasury. In addition, the bank taking out such circulation must agree to retire the same between March 15 and Aug. 10, 1907. In this way he hopes to demonstrate in limited form the benefits of an elastic currency.

Consular Service Pays.
For the year 1906, according to the report of Auditor Layton of the state department, receipts from the consular service have exceeded expenditures $19,722. This is the first time in sixteen years that this service has been on a self supporting basis. Under the new law consuls receive more pay, but are required to turn all fees into the treasury.

Squires Minister to Panama.
It was announced at the state department that Herbert G. Squires, formerly minister to Cuba, had been selected to succeed Charles E. Magoon as American minister to Panama.

President's Trip to Panama.
President Roosevelt now plans to leave New York on the battleship Louisiana Nov. 8, expecting to limit his visit on the isthmus to three days. By landing at a port in the canal zone he will be constructively under the American flag at all times during his visit, except when he calls upon the president of Panama. The president will be accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt, and they will return for the convening of congress in December.

Enforcement of Food Law.
The regulations for the enforcement of the new pure food and drug act as promulgated by the department of agriculture, require that ingredients of the package shall be stated precisely; that no deleterious or coloring matter shall be used even in the manufacture of candy, and that adulterations shall be prohibited, but not to bar standard drugs provided they are branded so as to show their actual strength or purity. The label must bear the name of the product, the place of manufacture and must show whether the article is a mixture or a blend. Mineral substances of all kinds are forbidden in confectionary and no substance may be used with any food product which reduces its quality or strength. The term "blend" applies to mixtures of like substances.

Engraving Bureau Outbid.
Proposals have been submitted to the postmaster general by the American Bank Note company of New York for furnishing stamps and stamp books for the next four years at 55 cents per thousand, whereas the bureau of engraving and printing operated by the government bid 57 cents per thousand. For special delivery stamps the company asked 10 cents, and the bureau 15.6 cents.

LEGAL-CRIMINAL

Peaceful Boycott Lawful.
Judge Kirby in the circuit court at Louisville, Ky., has decided in the suit brought by a local packing house against members of the Butchers' union that a peaceful boycott is within the law, because the constitution gives every laborer the right to quit work whenever he likes and that what one can do alone is right for numbers of men to do jointly. He holds also that it is the laborer's right to withdraw his patronage and to use the power of persuasion to induce others to do likewise. The union had circulated notices that the packer was "unfair."

Bank Looters Sentenced.
Teller C. B. Wray and Clerk C. S. Hixton, formerly of the Union Trust company of Pittsburg, have been sentenced to a term of ten years' imprisonment for stealing large sums from that institution, probably as much as $500,000. Before being sentenced Wray explained the process by which they had made away with these large sums. He said that they were money mad for want of capital to take advantage of opportunities to invest. He would make out a false deposit slip in the name of a depositor whose account had lapsed or who had died. These would be entered on the books by Hixton, then Wray would draw forged checks for near the amount and take the money, and when this check reached Hixton he would destroy it. He said that they took as high as $10,000 per day, playing all the money on the stock market through bucket shops.

Tennessee Oil Trust Indictments.
United States District Attorney Randolph, at Memphis, Tenn., has drawn indictments against the Standard Oil company containing 1,294 counts, each charging the company with a separate rebate offense on shipments between Chicago and Memphis.

Kansas Mayor Must Pay Fine.
The United States supreme court has dismissed for want of jurisdiction the appeal of Mayor Rose of Kansas City, Kan., from the fine of $1,000 imposed by the Kansas supreme court for assuming office in defiance of the latter's order after he had resigned and been re-elected. The original order was issued as a result of quo warranto proceedings brought against Rose for refusing to carry out the Kansas prohibition laws, he having permitted the Kansas City saloons to remain open by submitting to the imposition of monthly fines.

Negro Mob Attacks Theater.
The announcement of Dixon's anti-negro play, the "Clansman," for its appearance at the Walnut Street theater, Philadelphia, Oct. 22 had aroused so much feeling among the negro population of that city that a mob of more than 3,000 colored men assembled in front of the theater with the object of preventing the performance of the play. Windows were smashed, and many persons were injured before the police were able to prevail upon the crowd to disperse. Very few remained inside to see the play. Mayor Weaver, after conferring with negro ministers and leaders, forbade all further performances of the "Clansman," and the theater was closed. The Dixon company then applied for an injunction to restrain the mayor from carrying out this policy.

Ohio Investigation Checked.
Just as the bipartisan commission appointed by the Ohio senate last winter was preparing to carry its investigation of Cincinnati graft and chicanery into higher quarters, touching the award of franchises and the power of Boss Cox, the supreme court of the state rendered a decision, four to two, declaring the committee to have been illegally created, because the lower house of the legislature had no part in its creation.

Burton Serving Jail Sentence.
Joseph R. Burton, former senator from Kansas, surrendered himself to the court authorities on Oct. 22 and was taken to Ironton (Mo.) jail to begin serving his six months' term of imprisonment. He was accompanied by wife and niece. Mrs. Burton took up her residence in a boarding house near by and began preparing the distinguished prisoner's meals and carrying them to him in his cell. During the first day of his imprisonment he was permitted by the sheriff to leave the jail and walk to the boarding house to get books and papers from his trunk. A separate cell is to be given him, where he can carry on his legal or literary work. Mrs. Burton maintained her unruffled demeanor, saying it would be a good vacation and enable them to wear out their old clothes.

Joseph R. Burton.

A Self Governing School.
An experiment in pupil self government has been in progress in a village school in Macon county, Mo. In the main room, where the older pupils assemble, the self governing class gathered about the table and elected its own officers, and the principal used a phonograph to dictate problems so that the pupils should be relieved entirely of the supervision of the teacher. As the machine was set in motion the pupils copied the problems, discussed or worked out the answers, which were then tabulated by the teacher and turned over to the principal. Not one pupil was returned to the regular classes for failure to keep up with the studies. This year the experiment is to be extended to a number of other districts.

College Girls as Earners.
The Columbia university committee of students reports that out of 581 who applied for positions during the recent summer vacation 313 reported earnings aggregating $104,240. Most of the men received positions as tutors, but some worked as secretaries, clerks and salesmen. Their earnings averaged $113.43. The law students averaged $284.59 and the medical students $202.19. The women students of Barnard, however, did a little better. They were employed as clerks, stenographers, companions and governesses, and their earnings averaged $117.10.

Slates and Sponges Forbidden.
The health officer of Cleveland, O., has forbidden the use of slates and sponges in the primary grades of the public schools on the ground that they are insanitary.

INFORMAL OPENING OF METHUEN Y. M. C. A. BUILDING

Fully eight hundred people improved the opportunity to inspect the quarters of the newly organized branch of the Young Men's Christian Association in Methuen, Wednesday which were then thrown open to the public. The building is that in Central square, formerly occupied by the Methuen Home club but which has for several months past been undergoing extensive alterations to suit it for the purposes of the Y. M. C. A. The afternoon reception was held from 3 to 5 o'clock and during that time more than two hundred visitors were present. The evening reception was the more largely attended, however, as over six hundred, according to a conservative estimate were present during the hours between 8 o'clock and 10 o'clock, and the secretaries and the members who volunteered to assist were kept very busy escorting the guests through the building. All were delighted with what they saw.

Potted plants and bouquets arranged about in the various rooms, added to the attractiveness of the interior of the building. Potted chrysanthemums and chrysanthemum bouquets were contributed by Florio A. H. Wagland. During the afternoon and evening refreshments were served in the rear room by the ladies. The opening was very informal. The only exercises were in the afternoon, when the doors were first thrown open to the public. A short prayer was offered by Rev. R. B. Fisher and President Hartshorne of the board of directors made a few remarks informally declaring the building open.

In the evening the Y. M. C. A. orchestra of Lawrence was in attendance and discoursed music. The committee in charge of the opening included Everett H. Archibald, Dr. Roy V. Baketel, Granville E. Fos, Silas L. Holman, William D. Hartshorne, Harry E. Moore, Rev. Gilbert V. Russell, Rev. William B. Taylor, D. D., chairman, Joseph Teale and J. Milton Tenney.

The ladies' committee included: Mrs. George Chorley, Mrs. Annie P. Cross, Mrs. George W. Copp, Miss Marion R. Emerson, Mrs. George G. Frederick, Miss Elizabeth Morse, Mrs. James Peirce, Mrs. William M. Rogers, Mrs. Gilbert V. Russell, and Mrs. George W. Tenney. Those who assisted in serving as far as the names could be procured by the secretary were: Mrs. Annie P. Cross, Mrs. William M. Rogers, Mrs. George W. Tenney, Mrs. John T. Dugdale, Mrs. Nathan Morse, Mrs. Pearl, Mrs. Law, Mrs. George W. Copp, Mrs. C. E. Marsh, Mrs. Robert Stanley, Mrs. Frank A. Gordon, Mrs. J. D. Burley, Mrs. James Peirce, Mrs. George G. Frederick, Miss Katherine Frederick, Miss Marion Sillaway, Miss Edith Goldsmith, Miss Elizabeth Morse, Mrs. Robert Amis, Mrs. George Chorley, Miss Beacock, Miss Foster, Miss Sarah Spurr, Mrs. William Hamer, Mrs. Amy S. Greene, Miss Ruth Norris. The invitation committee comprised Dr. R. V. Baketel, Rev. W. B. Taylor, Rev. Robert Wolcott and Rev. R. B. Fisher.

The decorating was in charge of Harry E. Moore and Dr. Roy V. Baketel. Miss Marion B. Emerson had charge of procuring the music.

RUGS

In these days of modern improvements and hard wood floors the carpet rug is in great favor. It is cheaper than the regular carpet and often times handsomer. Then again, it's nothing to put down; anyone can do it, and during house cleaning time the hardest task of all is entirely eliminated. Carpet Rugs are fashionable, and they've come to stay. Our exhibition embraces 200 or more patterns in Wiltons, Body Brussels, Tapestry Brussels and Smyrnas.

.. ART .. SQUARES

Election Next Tuesday.

Five contests will absorb the greater part of the Andover interest in the election to be held next Tuesday; those for governor, lieutenant-governor, congressman, senator, and register of deeds. For the other places on the ticket there are to be some strenuous contests, but there is little doubt about the republican success as usual.

The contest for governor has been waged most vigorously, and seems now to be swinging in favor of Governor Guild. It is a contest between conservatism and radicalism, and there is little else to it. Party principles have been entirely abandoned by the radical candidate, and they have been but little discussed by the Governor and his supporters. For the time being the one issue is the character of manhood that shall be placed in the highest office in the Commonwealth. Upon that issue there can be no question as to where our own town will stand, and we can only urge every lover of Massachusetts to entirely sink party and personal prejudice, and see that Andover's voice is strong and full for such character and ability as Governor Guild stands for.

The contest for lieutenant-governor is along very similar lines, with the added issue of Mr. Draper's stand upon union labor. As between the two men, Mr. Brown, the man selected by the Boston American, and Mr. Draper, the man who for a year has been proving his worth as a public servant, there is no question as to choice. Mr. Brown has spent a lifetime seeking office, through alliance to any new cause that offered an opportunity. His strongest position today is as a professional agitator, preaching the gospel of unrest as directed by his sponsor, the great New York apostle of unrest. His policy is destruction, with the never failing hope that upon the ruins, his own personal fortunes may find the foundation for their promotion. His opponent is a splendid example of the Massachusetts type of business men in politics. He has built a great business through his ability to construct and promote. He is a large employer of labor, and has promoted labor's interests by giving steady employment at the highest market wages to nearly 4000 workmen. He is a "builder up" in the fullest sense of the term, and the State is most fortunate that he aspires to serve her. His Andover vote should be a rouser, because he fully deserves all that is best from such constituencies as this is.

The contest for congress is between the present incumbent and that popular vote getter in the democratic party, Joseph J. Flynn. The district is, normally republican by about 3000 votes, and there seems to be pretty good reason for expecting a victory for the republican candidate.

The senatorial fight is likely to be close. The democratic candidate is Edward C. Callahan, who has served as representative from Lawrence for three years. He has a record that appears to be pretty colorless, and that gives him no particular reason for aspiring to higher honors. His opponent is Joseph Donovan, a young lawyer of Lawrence, of good reputation and possessing ability. He has had no experience as an office holder, but is supported in the contest by many excellent Lawrence men who predict for him a career of great promise. The district is close politically, but Mr. Donovan's superior fitness for the office should give him success.

The contest for register of deeds will also be a close one. Mr. Delaney is the present incumbent, and appears to be relying upon his past administration, against which there seems to be directed very little criticism. His opponent is one of the bright young lawyers of Lawrence, Moses Marshall. Mr. Marshall is well fitted for the office and deserves well at the hands of the republican party, whose candidate he is. With a full party support he will be elected, and Andover republicans seem sure to do their share.

The great danger in Andover, as well as in other parts of the State, promises to be from an apparent state of apathy on the part of all voters. We say apparent, because what looks like apathy may be a calm that is ominous of a landslide either way. There is no question about the spirit of unrest and doubt that pervades the great mass of people. Some of this is undoubtedly justified by conditions, and much of it is not. That the remedy proposed is immeasurably worse than the disease, is the ray of promise that seems likely to forecast a defeat of the vicious elements that are arrayed on one side of the pending conflict. Whatever the opinion and however the result, let it be expressed through a rousing big vote. This is no time for stay-at-homes to be the deciding factor.

Cecilia Operetta Company Presents a Fine Program in Town Hall Last Evening.

Those who attended the concert in the Town hall last evening, given by the Cecilia Operetta company of Boston under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., were given a rare treat in vocal and instrumental music. The program was divided into two parts, the first consisting of selections by members of the company, excellently rendered in every instance, which the audience generously applauded. The solo work was superb and each of the vocalists were compelled to respond to encores.

The duet "Miserere" from Il Trovatore by Verdi was rendered by Mrs. Woods and Mr. Hall in a charming manner.

The second part of the program consisted of an operetta in one act, entitled "The Sleeping Queen." The parts were well taken and at various intervals of good work the audience showed their appreciation in a generous way. The scene of the play was in France in the province of Leon. His Excellency, the Regent, reigned supreme, having de-throned the father of the young exile, Philippe D'Aguliar, over which he felt very much elated. He was very fond of Dona Agnes, a Maid of Honor, and his fondness ripened into love. While in Paris one day, D'Aguliar saved a young lady from death on a fiery horse and her face haunted him for years, and after a long search he finds that the girl was the Queen in whose domain he stood. Seizing an opportunity while she is asleep, he kisses the Queen's hand, but is detected by the Regent, who orders him to be executed for touching her person.

The Regent, in the meantime, presses his suit with Dona Agnes and when he thinks that they are alone in the garden he kisses what he supposes to be the hand of his affinity, only to find that he has broken the law, the penalty of which is death. He implores the pardon of the Queen, which is granted on condition that D'Aguliar be also pardoned, and a love scene ends.

Andover Auxiliary Elects Officers.

The Andover Auxiliary of the American McAll Association held its annual meeting, Oct. 20, at the home of Mrs. John L. Brewster, Locke street.

Miss S. E. Jackson was re-elected president, and Miss Emily Carter and Miss M. S. Merrill serve again as treasurer and secretary. Two ladies from each church, with these officers, constitute the Board of Directors.

Reports of the Mission's work were given and the outlook seems encouraging, though critical, owing to the present unrest in France, consequent upon the readjustments incident to the separation of church and state.

The Rev. George T. Berry whose visit to Andover last year was so welcome, has been spending the summer in France, making a thorough study of the McAll work, and it is hoped that the Andover Auxiliary may hear him later in the year.

Enjoyable Birthday Party.

Last Tuesday afternoon, from 4 to 8, Miss Elizabeth Abbott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Abbott, celebrated her twelfth birthday by giving a number of her playmates a Halloween party. The house was prettily trimmed with red ears of corn and jack o' lanterns made of pumpkins. The time was pleasantly spent in playing Halloween games, after which dainty refreshments were served, and the little friends of the hostess went home perfectly happy with their delightful afternoon.

FARNHAM—ROBERTS

A pretty home wedding took place Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Vanderman, 25 Curtis street, Waltham, when their daughter Miss Alice A. Roberts, was united in marriage to Albert G. Farnham of Andover.

Rev. E. P. Fuller of Alston performed the ceremony, the single ring service being used. The bride was attended by Miss Alma J. Watts of Haverhill as bridesmaid and the groom by Robert D. Holcomb of North Adams as best man. The flower girl was Miss Mertie Frost of Haverhill.

The ushers were Albert T. Frost, Haverhill, John A. Cate, Concord, N. H., and Harry Weir, Boston.

They were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Vanderman and M. L. Farnham. The decorations were by Jas. T. Silman and consisted of potted plants, palms, laurel, and cut flowers. The presents were numerous consisting of silverware, cut glass, fancy china and many other useful and beautiful articles.

Guests were present from Andover, Concord, N. H., Haverhill, Lawrence, Lowell, So. Framingham, Concord, Mass., Lynn, North Adams, Boston, Somerville, Rockport, Maine. Andover Guild Funds

What will you give in time and money? Circulars have been sent out during the past week to about two hundred (200) of our families, all of whom are not now contributing, but who we trust will enter the ranks of annual contributors to the Guild.

Before entering fully upon the definite work of the year, it is necessary that replies from these reminders be at hand.

Let them all be in by November 10th. During the very successful work of twelve years the support of the Guild has rested altogether in the hands of too few. Last year's report shows but one hundred and forty-four (144) names on the list of financial helpers. To be sure these helpers were from all sections of the town and from all churches. Last year's report shows only thirty names of active workers and yet almost two hundred boys and girls were using the house weekly and many more pleading to enter classes. Last year the Guild had one of its most successful years and the coming year promises to be even more so.

Andover Guild

As was stated in these columns a few weeks ago, an account of the work of one department of the Guild will be reported each week. This week the report is from the Relief Department in charge of Mrs. Fred Andrews.

Relief Work

The month has been a very busy one and several cases might be of interest to the townspeople. One was of a young woman whose health had given out and she was obliged to give up her work in the mill. She was treated a few weeks by one of the town physicians and then through the kindness of a friend, her board was paid at the Charlotte Home in North Andover for two weeks. It had been thought that if she did not improve that she would have to be sent back to Scotland to her friends. (Parents both dead.) But she was very much better and has again gone to her task in the mill hoping to be able to continue to care for herself.

Clothing suitable for winter use was given her so that she could once more make a start.

Another case was one where the mother of a family needed hospital treatment. There were three little children to be cared for, the baby a little four months old, was boarded out here in town, and the other two, a little girl two years and the boy four, were placed in the Home for Little Wanderers for a few weeks. The children were given garments and a friend gave some money that was spent for needed things such as shoes, stockings and caps. The mother was also provided with some clothing and has entered the hospital and passed a successful operation. She is doing well and expects to return in a few weeks to her home and gather her little ones together and take up her duties once more.

A boarding place has been secured for a feeble old lady, who broke her hip some months ago and after returning from the hospital it was found could not have proper care at home this winter. She will be moved in a few days to home comforts.

A poor widow working hard in the mill to support three little children, one of whom she boards out, and the other two keeps with her, was given shoes and stockings for the boys.

Garments and furniture have been given to five needy families and three loans from the emergency closet during the month of October.

"Moran is Unfit"Read What Leaders of John B. Moran's Own Party Say of Him:

"We feel obliged to state our conviction of the fundamental unfitness of Mr. Moran to fill the high and dignified office of governor of Massachusetts. The obligations of good citizenship are superior to those of partisanship; we are citizens of an honorable commonwealth charged with our share of the duty of maintaining and advancing her standards of government even before we are Democrats."—J. A. Sullivan, Josiah Quincy, Arthur Lyman, J. C. Burke, E. L. Arundel, Nicholas J. Skerrett.

Mr. Moran as a Leader.

Congressman John A. Sullivan, a member of Mr. Moran's own party, says that Moran's assumption of leadership is certainly ominous of consequences, and he likens it to being whirled madly about in the delirious circles of the tarantella while in the grasp of a political crobat.

DO YOU WANT A POLITICAL ACROBAT
IN THE GOVERNOR'S CHAIR?*Mr. Moran as a Public Official.

Speaking again Mr. Sullivan says: "If his manner of conducting grand jury proceedings is to be taken hereafter as the official standard in Massachusetts well may those honest citizens who value reputation above all things else exclaim: 'God Save the Commonwealth of Massachusetts!'"

The secretary of the Boston Bar Association shows that during Moran's term as district attorney the cases pending have more than doubled, the indictments pending have more than tripled. His predecessor reduced the number of cases pending more than one-half. He has released 100 more criminals than his predecessor. Many less cases have come to successful conviction. The expenses of the office have been increased 30 per cent.

The Democratic candidate for lieutenant-governor has been a political will-o'-wisp for years.

He started as a GREENBACKER.

Identified himself with the POPULIST movement, and became very prominent in the affairs of that particularism.

Was a leader in the WORKINGMEN'S POLITICAL LEAGUE.

Now becomes prominent as a DEMOCRAT and a leader in the INDEPENDENCE LEAGUE.

Clemenceau Cabinet Named.

The new French minister, M. Clemenceau, has announced his cabinet, including General Picquart as minister of war. Thus the defender of Dreyfus arises to a place of authority over all the officers who formerly were his persecutors. This appointment is received popularly as the culmination of the Dreyfus tragedy and the vindication of national honor. The majority of the members of the new cabinet are radicals, and six of them were members of the Sarrien cabinet. It includes two independent Socialists.

General Picquart.

Prison For Suffragettes.

A number of woman suffragists who were arrested for creating a riot in the lobby of the British house of commons made a scene of disorder in the police court next morning. Their sympathizers, while shouting and waving banners, were thrown out of the court bodily, and their leader, Miss Pankhurst, was taken into custody. The ten women arraigned were bound over to keep the peace in the sum of $25 each. They refused to find sureties, protesting that they did not recognize the jurisdiction of the court over women who had no vote. They were then sentenced to two months' imprisonment. Miss Pankhurst was also sent to prison with the rest.

For Modified Socialism.

At a Welsh meeting David Lloyd George, minister for trade, frankly advocated a fairer distribution of wealth, which is one of the most important purposes of the Socialists. He did not suggest compulsory distribution, but said that the law that protects capitalists should first see that those whose labor produced the wealth are protected from actual need. Apparently he referred to old age pensions, and the Liberal government is believed to be feeling its way toward a modified form of Socialism.

Japan Rages Against Us.

Japanese newspapers and public speakers are giving expression to the outburst of anti-American sentiment on account of the attitude of the San Francisco authorities in barring Japanese children from the regular public schools. This refers to the recent agitation begun in San Francisco by the labor unions to compel the segregation of Japanese and Chinese in separate schools. Some weeks ago the school board started the separate schools, and, while the Koreans and Chinese obeyed, the Japanese almost unanimously kept their children at home and made formal protest to the board.

Magoon's Work in Cuba.

Governor Magoon has spent much time in acquainting himself with the leaders of the opposing factions in Cuba and has accepted the resignation of Assistant Secretary Mora and Prison Governor Montalvo, who were believed to be responsible for the electoral irregularities which brought on the recent uprising. On Oct. 22 the Governor visited the National Insane asylum at Mazorra and unearthened a shocking condition, many of the sick being without bed or clothes, notwithstanding the fact that the manager admitted having $5,000 on hand. Investigations have been begun and orders given to immediately improve conditions.

Siberian Exiles of a Year.

The Russian government under Premier Stolypin continues its policy of arrest and exile for every one suspected of opposing its programme. A report shows that 35,000 people have been exiled to Siberia since the manifesto of Oct. 30, 1905.

An Imperial decree removes all class restrictions regarding state employment, and all persons are declared equal before the law. Peasants are released from the communal system and will be allowed to dwell where they please. The poll tax will be abolished Jan. 10.

COMMERCIAL

Currency Reform Commission.

G. S. Whitson of New York was chosen president and John D. Powers of Middleboro, Ky., first vice president of the American Bankers' association before the adjournment of its convention at St. Louis. It was decided that a commission of fifteen men should be appointed by the executive council to confer with the New York chamber of commerce and the proper congressional committee with the object of enacting a new currency law. This was considered a victory of the western element over the east.

Ryan's Kongo Rubber Contract.

Thomas F. Ryan has signed an agreement with the officers of the Kongo Free State at Brussels on behalf of the American Rubber company, giving to the latter the right to experiment with new methods of treating rubber in certain districts adjoining Stanley falls. The report that the American company had obtained concession of territory was denied.

Gigantic Telephone Combine.

The American Union Trust company, with headquarters at Pittsburgh, has perfected the merger of 100 independent companies having 40,000 telephones and ten long distance lines. The merger is capitalized at $25,000,000, and the system covers parts of Pennsylvania, New York, Ohio, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia.

For a Larger Meat Trust.

The report was current that the American packing interests had arranged to merge their holdings in a British company and thus bring into absolute harmony the various concerns which still maintain, at least the appearance of independence. It is presumed that this arrangement would protect the combination from prosecution in American courts.

$200,000,000 Wabash Bonds.

The stockholders of the Wabash Railroad company met at Toledo and arranged for the issue of $200,000,000 in 4 per cent fifty year mortgage bonds. The proceeds of these bonds are to be used in retiring existing mortgages and other obligations as well as for betterments and extensions. At the same time the capital stock was increased $16,500,000.

Fight For Earthquake Insurance.

According to the report in Ridgway's, a group of San Francisco policy holders whose claims amount to $5,000,000 out of a total of nearly $20,000,000 written by the defaulting German and Austrian insurance companies have chosen Thomas Williams and Oscar Sutor of the San Francisco bar to invoke the aid of the federal government in an effort to shame them into paying at least a part of the defaulted claims.

INDUSTRIAL

Hill to Build Pacific Port.

On Grays bay, sixteen miles above the mouth of the Columbia river in Washington, James J. Hill has planned the construction of a new port city to be known as St. James. This will be the terminus of his North Bank railroad, now being built down the Columbia river from Pasco to Vancouver. This line will be extended westward to Grays bay, and it is expected that the new city will become one of the most important on the Pacific coast.

English to Grow Cotton Here.

A second commission representing Lancashire (England) cotton spinners is about due at New York, invested with the authority to buy extensive tracks of land in the southern states for the purpose of experimenting in the growing of cotton.

An Armored Automobile.

A New York millionaire leather dealer, J. H. Ladew, has caused to be constructed for himself an armored automobile at the cost of $10,000, which is the first of its kind in any city of the world. Half inch steel plates protect the rear and side panels of the car from the axles within three feet from the hood of the sides, and the chauffeur's seat is similarly protected, so that all the vital parts of the car are protected from the ramming of wagon tongues, trucks or street cars. Other new features of this automobile are the air brake and the electric signal system, by which the occupant with pressure of buttons may tell the chauffeur when to go slow, turn right or left, stop or go ahead.

Farm Product Trust Arrives.

The announcement of the purchase of the big butter distributing firm of James Rowland & Co., New York, in the interest of the American Farm Produce company drew attention to the extensive operations of the latter concern, which aims to control the entire market for eggs, milk and poultry throughout the country. The headquarters of this new trust are at Chicago, and it is understood to be financed by such men as Ryan, Brady, Morton, Whitney, Speer and others.

Price of Cotton Drops.

The publication of the government ginning report estimates, 4,910,290 bales ginned up to Oct. 18, sent the price of cotton down as much as $4 a bale, the inference being that the crop is not so far from last year notwithstanding the recent storms.

Yale Mastication Experiments.

A report has just been made in the Yale Alumni Weekly concerning the experiments conducted by Professor Irving Fischer, of the political economy department, with a number of students over a period of four and a half months, to discover whether proper mastication and enjoyment of food would affect the mental and physical power of the individual. The students took no more exercise than previously and were allowed to eat whatever they preferred, meats being served three times a day, as well as choice fruits and cereals—in fact, whatever they ordered. At the end of two months they had increased 50 per cent in endurance and at the end of the experiment they were able to do double the amount of physical work. It was found by thorough mastication that the men gradually lost their desire for meats, preferring cereals, fruits and nuts, and at the end they were consuming one-sixth of the meat they did at the start. Professor Fischer says the conclusion is that it is in the power of the healthy individual to double his endurance in five months by thorough mastication, prolonging the enjoyment of food, acquiring a more sensitive choice of amounts and kinds to meet the varying daily needs of the body.

Discontent as a Disease.

Dr. A. R. Mitchell, surgeon for the Rock Island railroad, speaking before the Chicago convention of railway surgeons, said that the prevailing popular tendency to wage wars on wealth and corporations was a form of neurasthenia.

nia which sweeps over the country like an epidemic. He said the power which had enabled the few to profit at the expense of the many was the fault of the many. He showed that men were led emotionally into destructive methods, consequently the lobbies maintained by corporations in different capitals were necessary to their self preservation because of the lower standard growing out of perverted nerve action which is spreading itself in the form of a hysterical epidemic.

RELIGIOUS

Methodist Publishing Merger.

After the executive board of the Freedman's Aid and Southern Educational society had approved the plan, all of the publishing interests of the Methodist Episcopal church had finally been consolidated with headquarters at Cincinnati. This includes the Board of Education society, the Sunday School union, the Tract society and Freedman's Aid society.

Famous Hymns Barred Out.

Bishop John J. O'Connor of the Catholic diocese of Newark, N. J., has instructed all of his churches to discontinue the use of the hymns "Nearer, My God, to Thee" and "Lead, Kindly Light," in their service. The latter might be sung after the conclusion of the service, but the former never, as the law of the church does not permit the singing of any hymn that is not part of the liturgical service. "Lead, Kindly Light" was written by Cardinal Newman before his conversion to the Catholic religion.

MISCELLANEOUS

Leper Outcast Dies.

George Rossett, the Syrian leper who made an ineffectual attempt to reach New York by riding in a freight car from his home in West Virginia, but who was turned back after getting as far as Philadelphia, died on Oct. 19 in his isolated tent in the mountains near Pickens, W. Va.

Balloons Beat Automobiles.

Two balloons, the Centaur and L'Orient, started from Pittsfield, Mass., in a race with three automobiles, the object being to test the availability of the former as message carriers in time of war. The L'Orient, piloted by Leo Stevens and carrying President Hodge of the Aero Club of America, won the race by going fifty-seven miles to the town of Jamaica, Vt. The motor cars were outclassed.

Elbert Hubbard's Latest.

"Fra Elbertus," the far famed founder of the Philistine and head of the East Aurora Roycrofters, has come out with a new claim to distinction. On all of his latest stationery occurs the statement, "I am Pericles, with an Aristophanes twist and a Socratic mental bias gotten from my cosmic sleep of twenty-four centuries close by the dust of the gentlemen just referred to." He says he knows more than Plato, Paul, Socrates, Seneca or Shakespeare, because he lives later. He adds that he has declined an offer of $50,000 per year from a literary syndicate, "because he wants to be a farmer and writer of choice stuff."

Colorado River Turned Back.

After months of hard work the engineers of the Southern Pacific railway have succeeded in damming up the inlet to the Salton sea in southern California and turning the Colorado river back into its original channel leading to the gulf of California. Thus $25,000,000 worth of property and the homes of 10,000 are rescued from inundation. The Salton sea is the vast inland body of water created during the two years that the river has been pouring into the lowlands of the desert. The break in the river bank was caused by the digging of an irrigation canal. Now the engineers have completed a concrete dam supplemented by rock and gravel.

Negro Artist Wins Prize.

The $500 Harris prize for the best painting at the nineteenth annual exhibition of American paintings now opened at Chicago has been awarded to Harry O. Tanner, a Pennsylvania negro, for his work entitled "The Disciples at the Tomb." Mr. Tanner is a Pittsburgh artist, who has studied in the best Paris studios. His works have been in the Luxembourg, the Carnegie institute, the Philadelphia academy and elsewhere.

Accidents.

The Russian steamer Varagin struck a floating mine while emerging from the harbor of Vladivostok and sank in two minutes. The crew and all but one of the 200 passengers were drowned.

More than 100 persons were reported drowned in the town of Panchilco, near the Chulo volcano, in Salvador, on Oct. 20. Other towns were reported to have been swept away by floods following the great storm.

Forty-six survivors out of the 150 men on the house boat which drifted to sea during the Mobile hurricane were picked up ninety miles off Key West, Fla.

Seven men were killed and two seriously injured by an explosion in the Cambria Mill mine at Johnstown, Pa., Oct. 20.

There were two persons dead and fourteen missing after the fire which destroyed the Chamber of Commerce building at Kansas City, Kan., Oct. 23. Many were saved by the timely arrival of scaling ladders.

FROM GIRLHOOD TO WOMANHOOD

Mothers Should Watch the Development of Their Daughters—
Interesting Experiences of Misses Borman and Mills.

Every mother possesses information which is of vital interest to her young daughter.

Too often this is never imparted or is withheld until serious harm has resulted to the growing girl through her ignorance of nature's mysterious and wonderful laws and penalties.

Girls' over-sensitiveness and modesty often puzzle their mothers and baffle physicians, as they so often withhold their confidence from their mothers and conceal the symptoms which ought to be told to their physician at this critical period.

When a girl's thoughts become sluggish, with headache, dizziness or a disposition to sleep, pains in back or lower limbs, eyes dim, desire for solitude; when she is a mystery to herself and friends, her mother should come to her aid, and remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will at this time prepare the system for the coming change, and start this trying period in a young girl's life without pain or irregularities.

Hundreds of letters from young girls and from mothers, expressing their gratitude for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has accomplished for the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., at Lynn, Mass.

Miss Mills has written the two following letters to Mrs. Pinkham, which will be read with interest:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— (First Letter.)
"I am but fifteen years of age, am depressed, have dizzy spells, chills, headache and backache, and as I have heard that you can give helpful advice to girls in my condition, I am writing you."—Myrtle Mills, Oquawka, Ill.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— (Second Letter.)
"It is with the feeling of utmost gratitude that I write to you to tell you what your valuable medicine has done for me. When I wrote you in regard to my condition I had consulted several doctors, but they failed to understand my case and I did not receive any benefit from their treatment. I followed your advice, and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and am now healthy and well, and all the distressing symptoms which I had at that time have disappeared."—Myrtle Mills, Oquawka, Ill.

Miss Matilda Borman writes Mrs. Pinkham as follows:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—
"Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound my periods were irregular and painful, and I always had such dreadful headaches."

"But since taking the Compound my headaches have entirely left me, my periods are regular, and I am getting strong and well. I am telling all my girl friends what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."—Matilda Borman, Farmington, Iowa.

If you know of any young girl who is sick and needs motherly advice, ask her to address Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., and tell her every detail of her symptoms, and to keep nothing back. She will receive advice absolutely free, from a source that has no rival in the experience of woman's ills, and it will, if followed, put her on the right road to a strong, healthy and happy womanhood.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound holds the record for the greatest number of cures of female ills of any medicine that the world has ever known. Why don't you try it?

METHUEN.

MISS MANN INJURED.

Miss Abbie S. Mann, who went to Worcester last week as a delegate from Samuel Adams chapter, D. A. R. to the state D. A. R. convention had the misfortune to meet with an accident which will confine her to her home for some time.

Miss Mann attended the sessions Thursday and in the evening she met with an accident which resulted in the breaking of her wrist and the fracture of her arm near the shoulder. After Miss Mann arrived in Worcester she was invited to stay with friends and she was at their home when the accident occurred. In the evening she attempted to go to the cellar and the place being strange to her, she missed her footing and fell down the stairs, sustaining the injuries.

In addition to having bones broken she received numerous bruises and a severe shaking up. Her nephew, Chas. W. Mann has gone to Worcester.

PRIVATE MASQUERADE PARTY.

A private masquerade party was conducted Tuesday night in the small Odd Fellows hall, and a very pleasant occasion it was for those who were privileged to attend. There were in the neighborhood of 50 present. The hall was very prettily decorated with Jack-o'-lanterns, red crepe paper, etc., and presented a very attractive appearance. The guests arrived in various fantastic costumes, all masked and when all were together dancing was begun, the grand march being led by Frank A. Gordon, as the ghost, and Miss Blanche A. Blodgett, dressed as a witch, with the witch costume and whisk broom. The variety and originality of the costumes worn made the grand march an interesting but withal a pretty one. Prof. Curran furnished the music. Until 10 o'clock those present mingled together in social conversation and dancing, each one endeavoring to guess the identity of the others while concealing his or her own. At 10 o'clock the masks were removed, and many were the surprises. Dancing and whist playing then continued until one o'clock, when the party broke up.

Favors were given consisting of fortunes in a nutshell. During the evening refreshments were served by the following: Mrs. D. A. Kelley, Mrs. Frank A. Gordon, Miss Blanche A. Blodgett, Miss May Turner, Miss Jane Parr, Miss Sylvia P. Leavitt, Dr. John Parr and B. B. Gordon.

Arthur L. Scollay was grand conductor. He was assisted by Mrs. George Langley, Mrs. Allan T. Gold, various tables will present a most attractive appearance, and a fine line of articles which will make good Christmas presents will be on sale. Admission is free to all.

LIPTON SHOWN WONDERS OF THE NEW WOOD MILL

Sir Thomas Lipton, the world-famed yachtsman, escorted by William M. Wood, president of the American Woolen Company and the Wood Worsted mills, visited the Wood Worsted mill Wednesday afternoon. The others in the party were Sir Thomas's secretary, John Westwood, Captain R. V. Webster of the London City Rough Riders, and a veteran of the Sudan and South African wars, Colonel Duncan Neil, a famous amateur yachtsman and the representative of Sir Thomas in New York. John F. Fitzgerald, mayor of Boston; M. J. Mitchell, purchasing agent of Boston; Joseph T. Shaw, secretary of the American Woolen Company; and B. F. Smith, Jr., treasurer of the Wood Worsted mills, and E. G. Richardson of the Boston Transcript.

Sir Thomas had been entertained until an early hour Wednesday morning, but he arose early and from his apartments in the Hotel Touraine viewed the heavy atmosphere and remarked that it was like a London day. The mayor of Boston however, was determined that Sir Thomas should not have many idle moments and had already planned an auto ride to Lawrence with President Wood that the Irish baronet might see the largest single mill building in the world devoted to the manufacture of woollen goods. President Wood had his touring car in readiness and another large car having been secured the party left the Touraine at noon, arriving in this city shortly after 2 o'clock.

The party were met at the main entrance of the mills on South Union street by Agent A. C. Lyon, Cashier Frank A. Sherman and James R. Bailey, Jr., of the Boston office, Contract-Edward W. Pitman, under whose supervision the great plant was built, and Captain Thomas Jones.

Mr. Bailey introduced Sir Thomas to the mill officials and the representatives of the press and the tour through the mammoth mill began.

"All aboard Sir Thomas" cried President Wood, and before he knew it, Sir Thomas was on the escalator and with the party was traveling upward at a rapid rate. To say he was surprised is to put it mildly. The baronet turned to Mr. Wood, expressed his surprise, at the same time remarking that he was to be commended for the institution of the escalator for the benefit of those in his employ.

This brought out the story from President Wood as to how he came to install the escalators in the Wood mills. He said that he had first seen the escalator in New York at the Port Hill elevated station and after a hard climb he appreciated the fact of his not being compelled to climb the long flight of stairs. He then conceived the idea of installing the system in the Wood mills. All the rooms in operation were visited and Sir Thomas was greatly impressed by all he saw, and made many inquiries of those at the machines. The more he saw, the more he was astonished and vented his wonderment in terms of the highest praise of American energy and progress.

From the third floor, windows overlooking the river Sir Thomas was shown the Duck mill where the Duffen's sails were manufactured, and the remainder of his party to see the mill, remarking, "I guess I shall have to have my sails made there."

Sir Thomas expressed in a few words his opinion of the mill to the newspaper representatives. "I have seen through the textile districts of Lancashire, Yorkshire, and elsewhere, but I have seen nothing to equal this great plant, everything in England is tiny compared to this, and I can scarcely believe that the building was only started a year ago. It seems like a fairy tale. I have seen Niagara Falls, but I have never regarded them as God's work with nature, but my astonishment is greater here for it seems impossible that this has all been accomplished by the hand of man."

At the power house as the party were inspecting the great engines, Sir Thomas met a man he knew, George Drysdale, an employee of the Sturtevant Blower Works, and a former resident of Greenock, Scotland, greeted him. Drysdale told the great yachtsman that he had seen all his boats, as well as many other challenges built near his old home, and the two men grasped hands and conversed for a few moments.

The party returned through a portion of the yard and again entered the mill, proceeding to the cloth-room. Here Sir Thomas was shown an array of samples of the finished product of the mills. He examined them carefully and then turning to President Wood he said, "Gentlemen, I can't understand why Americans should purchase cloth in English markets when you turn out such a fine grade right here. It may mean something to some people to buy their cloth from London, but from what I know of cloth I have seen nothing to match this product in quality or finish."

President Wood thanked him for his honest and manly tribute to American manufacture, and as a souvenir of the visit invited the party to select goods for a suit each, in order that they might put the quality of the goods to a test.

Sir Thomas expressed his pleasure at the gift and said he would wear the suit in London and show his friends what fine cloth was manufactured at the Wood mills.

The party with the exception of the agent and other officials directly engaged in the mill, repairs in the autos and carrying to the Essex House where Miss Host Thomas F. Kernon had prepared a fine luncheon for his distinguished guests.

The luncheon was entirely informal and Sir Thomas proved highly entertaining, his fund of good stories of incidents during his travels proving very interesting. Sir Thomas rose and spoke in praise of the privilege of viewing the great mills and repeated his praises of the wonderful plant. He said in part: "I have had a great time today; it has been a wonderful sight and I shall never forget it. It is a wonderful thing to see a mill manufactured at one end of a mill while the other end is in course of construction, and all within a year. There is nothing in Great Britain to equal it. If all the plants in Yorkshire and Lancashire were combined they would not occupy the ground covered by this mammoth building. I congratulate President Wood upon the achievement and the successful completion of such a great undertaking."

Mayor Fitzgerald was the next speaker and referred to Sir Thomas in the highest terms as a true sportsman, and by this manner the people of Boston were loyal to the American flag, still there were a very large number who were sorry that he had not won the American cup, because they had found him to be a thorough sportsman and an honorable gentleman. "If the cup ever goes from this country, we hope that it will be Sir Thomas that takes it," said Mayor Fitzgerald. The mayor paid a fine compliment to President Wood and said: "In Sir Thomas and President Wood we have two men who are types of themselves. They are busy and active and continually improving conditions about them. We have seen this today. It is wonderful that such a plant should be erected within a year, and I must say that Mr. Wood is second to no man in the manufacturing world today. In New England we are devoid of natural resources and will always have to produce something a little better than any one else, and this would be done by New England brains in such men as William M. Wood. Both Sir Thomas and President Wood began life as poor boys, but their own energy and push have brought them to the place where they stand today."

At the close of the luncheon President Wood arose and spoke in part as follows: Lawrence is a great highway, and now and then a star exists in the course of its travels, but like all stars, they usually scintillate singly. We have been visited today however, by two stars, Sir Thomas Lipton, who by his struggles has become known all over the world, and Mayor John F. Fitzgerald, whose speeches have been heard all over the world. I have been pleased by the gentlemen present, but I want to say that I have been ably and faithfully assisted by the gentlemen associated with the Wood mills and to them belongs a large share of the credit for our success.

I do not believe that the cotton industry should have been allowed to go South for its raw materials. It is in the state of Maine and in the East are fine streams and localities for the cotton industry. I believe that farther north mills might have been erected and the industry remained here."

President Wood proposed the health of Sir Thomas Lipton and the health of Mayor John F. Fitzgerald, leading the refrain, "For he's a jolly good fellow."

At the close of the luncheon Mayor Fitzgerald and Sir Thomas Lipton visited at the home of Miss Katherine A. White, organist at the Immaculate Conception church, and enjoyed a musical hour.

The Boston party then left at 5.30 o'clock for the Hub where a banquet was tendered to Sir Thomas in the evening at the Hotel Touraine.

WONOLACHT TRIBE HOLDS TWENTIETH ANNIVERSARY

The 20th anniversary of Wonolacst tribe, 29, 1, O. R. M. was observed Monday night with a banquet and ball in Association hall. A large number of the local tribe was present besides a delegation of visitors from the main lodge. The banquet opened at 8 o'clock in Hutchinson hall. The hall had been decorated for the occasion and it presented a cosy sight crowded as it was with a host of banqueters. Joseph Duncan, P. D., toastmaster of the evening, officiated at the banquet table with dignity and wit.

Those who responded to his call were: Great Sachem Oliver A. Libby of Lowell; the speaker of the evening, was the first to answer the call of the toastmaster. He prefaced his remarks with a table of statistics drawn up at the last national conference, showing the present condition of the order. His address follows:

"It is eminently fitting that the members of this order, to whom keeping and preserving the manners, customs and ceremonies of the aboriginal red men, should commemorate their virtues and eulogize their great chiefs and braves. When the pale faces landed on these shores they were welcomed by a peaceful, hospitable, brave and valiant, welcomed them to their tepees, warmed them at their fires and clothed them with the skins they had gathered while on the hunt."

"They were a people endowed with the most lofty sentiments, just in feeling, and honest in motive, and honor in action. Reared and dwelling beneath the protecting branches of the great forests and by the mighty rivers of this broad land, they developed the loftiest instincts and the most noble character of any aboriginal race which ever dwelt upon the face of this globe. They were the multitudes of the pale-faces; yet their creed and belief was the most beautiful which mankind has developed. They believed in the Great Spirit, whose presence was suggested by the whispering of the leaves upon the trees of their old home, by the murmuring of the waters of the vast rivers and the gurgling streamlets, by the rolling thunder and the lightning flash, in all of which they heard his voice speaking to his red children."

The Indian had never learned of the white man's faith, but he had an abiding faith that when he should pass from his home here below, he would be received into the 'happy hunting grounds' which Kishie Manitou had prepared for the red man beyond the thunder clouds, where his council fires should burn forever, and the protecting care of the Great Spirit.

They were called savages, yet their scheme of government, exemplified in the League of the Iroquois, taught our forefathers many lessons which aided them in founding the government under which we now live. The great government of the world ever saw."

"As members of the Improved Order of Red Men, we honor the Indian as he was found by the first settlers of this country before he had been contaminated by his association with the white man—when his vices were few and his virtues many; before he had been degraded by the 'firewater' of the pale-faces; before he had been robbed of his birthright, and goaded to fury by revenge and war by the unjust treatment which he had received from those whom he had welcomed, sheltered and fed; before his hunting grounds had been devastated and stolen; before he had been forced to leave the sacred resting places of his father's bones; before he had been compelled to seek shelter in the mountain fastnesses of the far West; before the solemn treaties of our government which gave to him and his forever, their new homes in the West, had been violated and broken, and before, goaded to desperation by injustice, treachery and the white man's greed, he became a human fiend, asking no giving quarter, fighting for his home, for his children and for his rights.

"It rests with us to hand down to posterity, the memory of their many virtues, and the beautiful ceremonies practiced in religious ceremonies and in their form of government, as well as their customs, ornaments and totems, that the coming generations may know of the American Indian as he was and as he now is."

"It is for us to show to posterity that this noble race were a people endowed with the richest gifts of manhood, truth, honor, charity and bravery."

"Let us not forget that if we would be true Red Men, we must exemplify in our lives the many virtues of that grand race whose members are fast passing away, who for untold generations possessed these hills and valleys, whose canoes skimmed o'er the lakes and rivers, whose hunting ground was all this broad land now ours, whose wigwams dotted every glade, and whose council fires lighted every hill."

"Sad it is to think that so noble a race, possessed of so many virtues and endowed with so many talents as were the red men of the forest, should be obliterated from the face of the earth, with nothing to tell future generations of their nobility and true manhood but tradition. Would it were possible that their wampum belts could give up the secrets of their lives as they were talked into them by their mystery men and prophets; but the wampum belts exist no longer, their sacred mysteries are mysteries indeed, beyond the ken of human kind, and but few years must pass before their very existence be remembered as a tale that is told."

When the inner man had been satisfied the guests left the banquet hall and adjourned to the ballroom, where they tripped the light fantastic until midnight.

The officers of the local tribe are as follows: Prophet, W. T. Putnam; sachem, M. P. Moulton; senior sagamore, H. E. Moody; junior sagamore, L. S. Wilds; chief of records, W. L. Curtis, P. S.; collector of wampum, I. D. Blandin, P. S.; keeper of wampum, C. W. Towne, P. S.; first warrior, G. E. Freeman, P. S.; second warrior, Joseph Duncan, P. FOR A BOULEVARD ALONG THE MERRIMACK

The county commissioners will give a hearing in this city on Friday, November 9th upon the matter of building a boulevard from this city along the north bank of the Merrimack river through the town of Methuen to the Dracut line from which point the Middlesex county commissioners have given assurance that they will continue the work to Lowell.

Prominent citizens of this city and Methuen are interested in the proposed boulevard. A preliminary hearing was held upon the matter some time ago at which time the Middlesex commissioners were present.

The Essex commissioners are anxious to go over the proposed route sometime previous to the day of the hearing and arrangements have been made by local interested parties so that they can do so. It is proposed to construct the boulevard along Water street continuing that street through the private holdings along the high ground at the river's edge, past Glen Forest to a point beyond the Burnham estate where low land is met with. Here the plan calls for a sweeping curve to the present highway, meeting it at a point where the Boston and Northern electric street crosses the private land. Following the railway tracks into private land the boulevard will take the same route as the railway the remainder of the way to the Dracut line. The Middlesex county authorities will continue along the street railway line to Lowell.

A boulevard such as is proposed would open up a very desirable residential section which would easily become the finest in the city. The boulevard would overlook the river the entire distance from the present terminus of Water street to the Glen Forest park.

WHIRLED TO DEATH ON REVOLVING SHAFT.

Her arm caught in a pulley and her body whirled around a rapidly revolving shaft in No. 1 lower weaving room of the Atlantic mill, Mrs. Annie Busiere, aged about 40 years, met her death in a horrible manner at 8.40 o'clock Tuesday morning.

The woman was a weaver and in some manner not known at present her sleeve or arm was caught in the pulley of a revolving shaft and with a piercing scream the unfortunate woman was carried round the shaft. Her left arm was completely torn from her body and every rib broken the body falling to the floor mangled and bleeding, a horrifying spectacle to the fellow operators of the poor woman.

Medical Examiner Dow was immediately summoned and he ordered the remains removed to the undertaking rooms of Lacaille and Legendre, Common street.

The husband of the unfortunate woman was summoned and he was utterly prostrated when he learned of the terrible affair. The couple have an adopted child who lives with them. Mrs. Busiere was accounted one of the best weavers in the mill and had had a long experience. The machinery by which she was caught was not that connected with the loom she was running, but one adjacent and no reason can be assigned as to how she became entangled.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS VIEW PROPOSED BOULEVARD

County Commissioners Wallace Bates of Lynn and Moody Kimball of Newburyport visited this city Thursday morning to view the proposed boulevard along the north bank of the Merrimack river.

The commissioners will lay out a highway as proposed if by the improvement the county will receive in a few years a sufficient income from the increased real estate to warrant the expenditure. The construction of a county highway along the river as a continuation of Water street would open up one of the most desirable residential sections in the city. It would also give a direct route to Lowell past Glen Forest and along the line of the Boston and Northern electric, striking the street railway at the point where it enters private land.

The Middlesex county commissioners are very anxious to complete the highway from the Dracut line to the city of Lowell proper should the Essex county commissioners agree to construct from Lawrence to the Methuen and Dracut line.

The commissioners arrived in Lawrence this forenoon, visiting the superior court house and the jail. At the latter institution they were met by Manager L. E. Bennink of the Reid & Hughes Co., and a party of citizens in automobiles. Those furnishing machines for the trip were R. G. Kneupper, Fred Ellis in Holman's car, Attorney Walter Coulson. In the party were L. T. Bennink, City Clerk C. J. Corcoran, Simeon Woodbury, John J. Hurley, John W. Duffy, Councilman M. F. Scanlon, and a Telegram reporter.

Leaving the county institution the party made their way down Broadway and up Water street to the city pumping station. Here the machines made their way over rough ground through the Grand View Heights owned jointly by City Clerk Corcoran, Dr. M. F. Sullivan, Simeon Woodbury and Councilman John J. Hurley, and the city of Methuen line across the Levi Emery estate recently acquired by John W. Duffy and John J. Hurley.

A plan furnished by City Engineer Farble was consulted and the estimated distance from the end of Water street to Glen Forest is 2,500 feet, a little less than a half mile. Practically all the grading to be done comes in this stretch and the cuts will furnish more than enough filling for the depressions.

Leaving Grand View Heights and the Emery estate the party returned to the travelled highway and made their way to the Burnham estate, just west of Glen Forest. Here another cross country run was made through fields to the vicinity of the river. Some time was spent in looking over the ground and then the tour of inspection was continued to Fish brook, near the corner of North Lowell street, Methuen, where some filling will be necessary. Only a short time was spent here as the county commissioners wished to look over the ground a short distance along one route of the street railway from the point where it enters private land. It being impossible to push the survey further in the automobiles the commissioners decided to return to this city and were taken to the Essex county Training school for dinner where they will spend much of the afternoon in looking over the improvements upon the old buildings and in noting the progress being made upon the new school plant.

The commissioners will give a hearing on the matter of constructing a boulevard in the probate court room in the superior court house on Friday, Nov. 9th. All parties interested are urged to attend the hearing. The preliminary hearing held it some months ago developed great interest and more than sixty interested residents of Lawrence and Methuen were present. Upon invitation of the Essex county commissioners the Middlesex commissioners were in attendance.

At the coming hearing an exact statement of conditions to be met with will be made. City Engineer Marble will explain his blue prints of the proposed route. R. A. Hale, engineer of the Essex company will probably be present as he was associated with Engineer Marble in drawing up the maps, the latter abutting the flowage land of the Essex company along the Merrimack river.

The county commissioners do not propose to put the county to the expense of seizing land for the highway entailing land damage. Those interested do not think that it is necessary as owners of land are more than willing to grant the county a right of way through their holdings.

As to the stretch traversed by the street railway the company it is understood was originally given a right of way with the understanding that should a highway ever be built they should offer no objection.

Should a boulevard be constructed as proposed it will afford one of the most beautiful drives in all New England.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT ON GEORGETOWN ELECTRICS.

HAVERHILL, Oct. 28.—A number of persons were injured, seven of them severely in a rear end collision on the Georgetown branch of the Boston & Northern Street railway, this evening on a steep grade at Peabodyville, four miles outside the city. The accident is said to have been caused by leaves on the rails which caused the wheels to slip.

The injured are:

Mrs. A. C. Blanchard, Bradford, internally, extent unknown.

Edward Boner, South Groveland, severe bruises.

Patrick Sharkey, South Groveland, cuts and bruises, right shoulder broken.

Maynard Woodman, Byfield, cuts.

Cornelius Coffey, South Groveland, contusion.

Charles Ashe, Haverhill, cuts and bruises.

Henry Munger, Haverhill, severe shaking up.

The accident occurred about 6.30 o'clock this evening.

A regular car had called for Georgetown, and another car called a trailer was following. Before reaching Peabodyville the cars went down a steep grade and when near the foot of the hill, the front car left the track, owing to the spreading of the rails. The motor, reversed his power, and applied the brakes, but the car kept on and crashed into the rear of the first car.

The front platform of the rear car was nearly demolished, but the motor-man managed to jump just before the cars came together. The rear platform and vestibule of the front car was also badly shattered and most of those who were injured were standing in the vestibule.

DEATH OF A WELL KNOWN WOMAN.

Emma Augustus Keeler, aged 52 years, died at the home of her sister, Mrs. E. S. Edmunds, 547 Osgood street, at 1 o'clock Sunday evening.

The cause of death was a shock. She had been ill for some time and was rapidly recovering from a previous shock when she was suddenly called to a higher life.

Miss Keeler was a most estimable woman and her kind-heartedness and willingness to aid every good cause had attained a wide host of friends.

Her familiar figure will be missed from the M. E. church circle, where, during her whole life, she had been a regular and devout attendant and a great worker for her faith. She was a member of the choir and also the various societies connected with the church. She was a most beautiful singer and her willingness to assist any affair by her talent was highly appreciated.

Her demise is a great blow to all who knew her and her loss will be mourned by a large number of close friends.

Two sisters, Mrs. E. S. Edmunds and Miss Hattie E. Keeler, and four brothers, Edward C., Franklin E., Charles P. and Ira E. Keeler survive.

ANDOVER BEATEN BY THE HARVARD FRESHMEN TEAM

Harvard freshmen defeated Phillips Andover, 6 to 0, on Brothers field Saturday afternoon.

Harvard's score came in the first half. After several exchanges of punts Harvard got the ball on Andover's 40-yard line and a forward pass netted nearly 30 yards, Galotti sending the ball ahead to D'Este, who had good interference with him and was not downed until he reached the 10-yard line. On third-down Harvard had a yard and a half to gain to score. Gregory struck the line hard but failed to gain.

Looked like Andover's ball on downs, when the ball was seen to roll out from the scrimmage and over the line where Hoffstaad fell on it for a touchdown. After a kickoff West kicked a goal.

Andover showed a powerful attack in the second half and had Harvard on the defensive, but poor passes and fumbles enabled Harvard to prevent being scored against.

Twice Andover had the ball within five yards of a touchdown, but it was lost on fumbles and once Harvard was forced back to her goal line, less than six inches saving the visitors from a safety score against them.

Capt. Daly and quarterback Merritt of Andover were out of the game and Kilpatrick was used only in the last few moments when he distinguished himself by breaking through the Harvard line for long gains. He tried a drop goal from the field and failed. O'Connor made a similar attempt and Fisher tried for a goal from placement from the 40-yard line without success. The summary:

EXETER 5, COLBY 0.

EXETER N. H., Oct. 28—Exeter Saturday defeated Colby, 5 to 0.

Exeter Colby was forced to punt and Vaughan's long return, a forward pass and an inside kick placed Exeter in striking distance, when a quarterback kick went astray.

Colby punted, and blocking an Exeter punt, vainly essayed a field goal another opportunity soon afterward resulting likewise.

Vaughan then feinted to punt, ran half the field and passed to Gilroy, who scored.

In the second half Exeter reached Colby's 10-yard line, but lost on a forward pass. Colby's offensive game was powerful. Goode was her star.
